LOCAL TIP

"Fabulous furniture store to outfit any room in the house is Colorado Style located off of C470 and University. Locally owned business with furniture, accessories, art, rugs and lighting. Every style for every room ... love, love, love them!"

– Chrissy S.

Daniels Park is one of the best spots for sunsets in Denver and mountaintop views of Colorado's expansive Front Range. Vista views from the park are enjoyed as it is perched high above the Front Range with panoramic views of Pike's Peak, Long's Peak and the Denver skyline. The park is popular for those who love hiking, biking, bison viewing and picnics all year round.

The trail system provides trails for walking, running, and biking. You can walk as little as 0.2 miles or as far as 5.4 miles. The park's trail starts at the Shelter House and extends to the top of the bluff, to Grigs Road, and eventually connecting with the Douglas County East/West Trail.

The Tallbull Memorial Grounds is an exclusive ceremonial site that is fenced off, gated and only open to the public during Native American powwows. There is an annual powwow that is held every Labor Day weekend for the public to attend.
